SUMMARY

I am a fresh graduate from Universitas Mulawarman, majoring in Informatics. During my studies, I learned extensively about computer networking and software development, with my final research focusing on E-commerce website development, which made me familiar with various front-end and back-end technologies. In addition to my campus learning, I actively took online courses to deepen my knowledge in technology. This helped me strengthen my practical skills and stay up-to-date with the latest trends. I am a fast learner, enjoy challenges, and am used to solving complex technical problems, as well as delivering effective solutions in high-pressure situations. I also easily adapt to different work environments and am ready to contribute with my expertise.
